

The challenge given to Cunninghams was to replace the existing Sharp cash registers with a system that would allow several price changes throughout the night and speed up the operation at hand, with little fuss and the ability to maintain accurate reports for stock control and margin protection.

Speed had always been a problem as the venue increased its number of customers and their spend per head. The directors felt they could be losing business because they could not serve the customers fast enough.

It was Cunninghams who provided four XN900i touch terminals running ICR touch software to solve the problem. Each touch screen had two cash drawers to allow two users to have their own float. This resulted in a much better cash count at the end of the trading day, as accuracy was increased and each member of staff was accountable for their own float and takings.

A pre set scheduler ensured the prices changed at the correct time.

The improvement to the business saw more customers being served and a increase in takings due to faster and more efficient service.

The success of this system certainly delivered benefits for the Cock Hotel and Matrix Club, why not let Cunninghams achieve the same for you.
