MOVE delivers a slick user experience for staff so they can take orders, process payments and provide better service to customers anywhere in the venue. By reducing the time it takes to place an order and cutting down on excessive waiting for customers, MOVE not only delivers business efficiencies, it also significantly increases revenue.

Integrated with the EPOS System in real time, MOVE gives users access to live stock, pricing and promotional data just like any other till, as well as prompting staff to ask those all important questions which not only makes for a smoother running kitchen, but creates additional upselling opportunities.

In most cases average spend is also increased leading to higher turnover, without the need for additional staff.

The MOVE hand-held terminal can also be used as a standalone till and are therefore ideal for mobile vendors. MOVE is already widely used in food vans and pop up bars at music festivals, within conference venues for industry trade shows, and Jiffy Trucks which serve the mobile catering market.
